

Italy's 2009 G8: Plans for the Summit

Jenilee Guebert
Senior Researcher, G8 Research Group
December 4, 2008

Preface	2	Participating Leaders	17
Introduction: Italy's 2009 G8	2	G8 Leaders	17
Agenda: The Policy Summit	2	Italy	17
Climate Change	2	Canada	17
Energy	3	France	17
Nuclear Energy	3	United States	17
Global Economy	3	United Kingdom	18
Hedge Funds	3	Russia	18
Financial Crisis	3	Germany	18
Africa	5	Japan	18
Education	5	O5 Leaders	19
Water	5	China	19
Food and Agriculture	5	India	19
Peace Support	6	Brazil	19
Intellectual Property	6	Mexico	19
Terrorism	6	South Africa	19
Heiligendamm Process	6	Other Participating Leaders	20
Outreach and Expansion	6	Australia	20
Participation	10	Indonesia	20
Program	11	South Korea	20
Process: The Physical Summit	11	Appendices	20
Site	11	Commitments and Remits Due in 2009	20
Government Preparations: External	12	Emissions Table	22
Bilateral Meetings	12	G8 GDP	22
Other	12
Emergency Meeting	12
Ministerial Meetings	13
G8 Agricultural Ministers	13
G8 Foreign Ministers	13
G7 Finance Ministers	13
10 October	13
Civil Society	16
Activities	16
Italy's G8 Team	16

Preface

This report on "Italy's 2009 G8: Plans for the Summit" is compiled by the G8 Research Group largely from public sources as an aid to researchers and other stakeholders interested in the 2009 G8 Summit. It will be updated periodically as plans for the 2009 Summit evolve. This report adds material on the physical summit, Italy's internal preparations and G8 ministerial meetings.

Introduction: Italy's 2009 G8

Italy will host the G8's 2009 Summit from July 8 to 10. La Maddalena will serve as the summit site and so far it appears that the issues of world economy, climate change, energy, including nuclear energy, Africa, food security, intellectual property and the Heiligendamm process will all be a part of the Italians 2009 G8 agenda. The G5 countries of China, India, Brazil, Mexico and South Africa will be invited to attend part of the summit, as will the additional MEM participants of Australia, Indonesia and South Korea.

Agenda: The Policy Summit

Climate Change

Italian prime minister Silvio Berlusconi, whose country will host the 2009 G8 summit meeting, suggested toward the end of the 2008 Major Economies Meeting (MEM) that they should discuss the topic again when Italy hosts.¹ (July 11, 2008, Daily Yomiuri)

The G8 reaffirmed their commitment to take strong leadership in combating climate change and welcomed decisions taken in Bali as the foundation for reaching a global agreement in the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) process by 2009. They stated that they were committed to its successful conclusion. (Commitment pledged in 2008 at the Japanese Hokkaido Toyako summit)

The G8 countries indicated that they need to ensure an effective and ambitious global post-2012 climate regime and that all major economies need to commit to meaningful mitigation actions to be bound in the international agreement to be negotiated by the end of 2009. (Commitment pledged in 2008 at the Japanese Hokkaido Toyako summit)

The MEM nations committed to continue to work constructively together to promote the success of the Copenhagen climate change conference in 2009. (Commitment pledged in 2008 at the Japanese Hokkaido Toyako summit)

¹ Daily Yomiuri (July 11, 2008), "Vested interests main post-summit challenge."

Energy

The G8 pledged to compile national reports with the help of the International Energy Agency (IEA) and to update them for the 2009 summit. (Commitment pledged in 2008 at the Japanese Hokkaido Toyako summit)

Nuclear Energy

The G8 countries agreed that transfers of enrichment equipment, facilities and technology to any additional state in the next year [2009] will be subject to conditions that, at a minimum, do not permit or enable replication of the facilities; and where technically feasible reprocessing transfers to any additional state will be subject to those same conditions. (Commitment pledged in 2008 at the Japanese Hokkaido Toyako summit)

Global Economy

Hedge Funds

Italian finance minister Giulio Tremonti wants to destroy hedge funds — the whole “hellish $2 trillion industry.” And when Italy takes over the presidency of the G8 nations in January, he’s going to get on the case.² (October 17, 2008, The Daily Telegraph)

Financial Crisis

France, Britain and Germany have called for an overhaul of the world’s financial system. The G8 leaders have agreed that financial architecture reform is necessary and a meeting needs to be held “at an appropriate time in the near future.” “The system must be completely overhauled, an overhaul that must be global,” French President Sarkozy said, while repeating his call for an international summit before the end of the year, “preferably in New York where everything began.” British prime minister Brown said, “I believe a forum to decide on big changes in the international economy can be held in the next few months.” He also noted that he expected that the G8 and key countries such as China, India, Brazil and South African would gather in November or December.³ (October 16, 2008, The Globe and Mail)

On October 15, 2008, the G8 leaders released a Statement on the Global Economy. They reaffirmed that they will remain united to “resolve the current crisis, strengthen our financial institutions, restore confidence in the financial system, and provide a sound economic footing for our citizens and businesses.” They confirmed their support for the recent actions taken by the G7 finance ministers and central bank governors and that they will work to mitigate the “adverse impacts on emerging economies and developing nations.” They reiterated their support for the IMF, particularly in its assistance to affected countries. And they underscored the “importance of not turning inward and of continuing efforts to promote trade and investment liberalization, which over the past several decades has significantly raised the global standard of living and lifted millions out of poverty.” They also indicated that a leaders’ meeting “with key countries” was being planned in the “near future.”⁴ (October 15, 2008, The White House)

² The Daily Telegraph (October 17, 2008), “Hedge funds don’t need punishing - they are suffering enough.”

³ The Globe and Mail (October 16, 2008), “European powers urge global overhaul: EU leaders broadly endorse banking rescue plan, while G8 agrees to meet to discuss reforms to financial architecture.”

Italian economy minister Giulio Tremonti said Italy would propose that the IMF and the World Bank “can be used for different goals,” and given new tasks to complement their current ones. Tremonti has spoken on several occasions of the need to “redesign the Bretton Woods” agreement, which established the post–World War Two global financial structure. The rewriting of financial market rules should target “absolutely crazy bodies, like hedge funds which have nothing to do with capitalism.” Asked if he was suggesting that hedge funds should be banned, he said “we have to launch a discussion about this.”⁵ (October 11, 2008, Reuters News)

Italy, as the next president of the G8, has drafted a reform of the world's financial institutions intended to present to its partners on October 11, economy minister Giulio Tremonti said. Speaking to reporters after the G7 finance ministerial on October 10, Tremonti said Italy’s presidency of the G8, which begins in January, would see a radical shake-up of financial institutions to avoid a repetition of recent market turmoil. “As the next G7 president Italy will propose a reform of the Bretton Woods institutions,” Tremonti said. “We already have a draft of our Bretton Woods reform proposals which we will present to the G20 on Saturday,” Tremonti said. He added that the plan would also include a reform of the G7. Tremonti, who has often criticized the rapid globalization process since the mid 1990s, said reform must go beyond tinkering with financial market rules. “If the origin of the crisis is financial, maybe the solution for the future must be political and institutional, we need to define new trade rules and new rules for finance,” he said. “Finance has to be a means, it cannot be an end. We have rules that reward finance but we are lacking those that ban speculation, speculative instruments and tax havens. It is time to transform the crisis into an opportunity for everyone.”⁶ (October 10, 2008, Reuters News)

Italian finance minister Giulio Tremonti said that Italy is going to use its G8 presidency to put forth new rules to avoid financial crisis such as the current one. He singled out tax havens and false accounting as two areas where tighter regulations were needed.⁷ (September 28, 2008, Reuters News)

According to Italian economy minister Giulio Tremonti, Italy is planning to establish new rules to avoid financial crises like the current one when it takes over the G8 presidency in January. “It is not a bank that failed, it’s the whole system,” Tremonti said. He believes the international surveillance mechanisms are inadequate. “We must have

⁴ The White House (October 15, 2008), “G8 leaders statement on the global economy.”

⁵ Reuters News (October 11, 2008), “Italy proposed broadening G7, changing IMF.”

⁶ Reuters News (October 10, 2008), “Italy ready to present global finance reform plan.”

⁷ Reuters News (September 28, 2008), “Italy aims to expand G8 to include China, Brazil.”

new rules, and it is up to the governments to make them,” Tremonti said, adding that Italy would raise that issue when it took over chairing the G8. He said that tax havens and false accounting were two particular areas where tighter rules were necessary.⁸ (September 16, 2008, Reuters News)

Africa

Education

The G8 have committed to train, including through appropriate multilateral institutions, 100,000 teachers by 2009, with a particular focus on high-quality literacy skills. (Commitment pledged in 2004 at the American Sea Island summit)

The G8 pledged to monitor the Fast Track Initiative (FTI), including meeting shortfalls, through a report to be delivered at the 2009 Summit. (Commitment pledged in 2008 at the Japanese Hokkaido Toyako summit)

Water

The G8 acknowledged the need to accelerate the achievement of the internationally agreed goals on water and sanitation. They pledged to reinvigorate their efforts to implement the Evian Water Action Plan and to review it on the basis of a progress report prepared by our water experts by the 2009 Summit. (Commitment pledged in 2008 at the Japanese Hokkaido Toyako summit)

Food and Agriculture

United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization Director General Diouf has already been in contact with Italian authorities about moving forward a plan to create a world network of food and agriculture experts in order to assess future needs and risks globally at next year’s G8 summit. Diouf believes that 30 billion dollars per year must be mobilized in order to double food production to feed a world population of 9 billion by 2050. “In this connection, as president of the G8 next year, Italy bears a historic responsibility,” Diouf said.⁹ (September 17, 2008, ANSA English Media Service)

At the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) summit in June, and at the last G8 meeting in Japan, the Italian Government confirmed it intended to keep issues such as food security, the fight against poverty and sustainable agricultural development high on the international political agenda. Food security, with a special focus on Africa, will be a priority during the Italian G8 presidency in 2009.¹⁰ (July 22, 2008, New Press)

⁸ Reuters News (September 16, 2008), “G8 needs new rules to avoid financial crisis-Italy.”

⁹ ANSA English Media Service (September 17, 2008), “Italy Key in World Food Crisis Resolution.”

¹⁰ News Press (July 22, 2008), “Italy gives euros14 million for food security.”

The G8 has committed to work with governments and other donors to realize the goal of attaining food security for five million chronically food insecure people by 2009. (Commitment pledged in 2004 at the American Sea Island summit)

The G8 promised to review the progress on the food crisis issue at the 2009 summit. (Commitment pledged in 2008 at the Japanese Hokkaido Toyako Summit)

Peace Support

The G8 tasked experts to discuss their efforts for peace support for Africa, in cooperation with the UN and regional organizations, and to submit a progress report prior to the Summit in 2009. (Commitment pledged in 2008 at the Japanese Hokkaido Toyako summit)

Intellectual Property

The G8 committed to take stock of the progress made to strengthen intellectual property rights protection by the time of the 2009 summit. (Commitment pledged in 2007 at the German Heiligendamm summit)

Terrorism

The G8 stressed the urgent need for full implementation of existing standards, including Financial Action Task Force (FATF) Special Recommendations VIII and IX, and asked their experts to take steps to share information, evaluate threats, assess new trends and promote implementation and review these efforts by 2009. (Commitment pledged in 2008 at the Japanese Hokkaido Toyako summit)

Heiligendamm Process

The G8 countries committed to issue a final report on the Heiligendamm process at the 2009 summit. (Commitment pledged in 2007 at the German Heiligendamm summit and reiterated in 2008 at the Japanese Hokkaido Toyako summit)

Outreach and Expansion

British prime minister Gordon Brown will chair the next G20 summit at the end of April. However, Berlusconi, despite intending to preserve the “hard core” of the G8 format, has already announced that at the next summit he intends to give more space to the “outreach” countries by adding Egypt — the first Arab and Muslim country admitted to the “club” — to the emerging economies of China, India, South Africa, Mexico and Brazil. The seriousness of the international economic situation makes it advisable that there be integration rather than sterile competition between the G8 and G20 formats.

Changing the “governance model” is a priority for Franco Frattini, the man in charge of the Italian foreign ministry. He chaired the first meeting of the foreign ministry's Strategic Forum for Analysis and Forecasts. Frattini intends to translate thoughts into actions soon: “As early as at the beginning of spring we must be working at how to harmonize the economic G8 [as published] with the G20,” Frattini noted.¹¹ (November 23, 2008, BBC Monitoring European)

Italian prime minister Silvio Berlusconi, who takes over the G8's rotating presidency next year, insisted that the G8 remains relevant despite the rise of the G20. Berlusconi defended the G8 after leaders from the G20 met at a summit in Washington aimed at tackling the global financial turmoil. “From January 1, we will have the presidency of the G8, which was not eclipsed by the G20,” Berlusconi, who attended the G20 summit, said. “In reality, certain problems must be discussed by countries that have full-fledged democracies as other countries, which are part of the G20, are still on the path to democracy,” he said.¹² (November 16, 2008, Agence France Presse)

Italian prime minister Silvio Berlusconi said he would seek to expand the G8 to include rapidly growing emerging economies when he takes over the presidency in 2009. After meeting with Brazil's president Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva, Berlusconi said he wants China, India, South Africa, Mexico and Brazil to join the G8, in what would become a G13. He said Italy was also in favour of including Egypt, in what would be dubbed a G14. The G13 or G14 would represent about 80% of the global economy, and a vast majority of the world's population, Berlusconi said.¹³ (November 11, 2008, Dow Jones Chinese Financial Wire)

Turkey's participation in G8 activities will be discussed in the Turkish-Italian intergovernmental summit which is to take place in the western province of Izmir on November 12, said Carlo Marsili, Italy's ambassador to Turke. Marsili said the Turkish-Italian intergovernmental summit, which would be held for the first time, showed that Turkey had a significant place in Italy's foreign policy. Turkish prime minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan and Italian prime minister Silvio Berlusconi are to co-chair the summit and several Italian and Turkish ministers will participate as well, Marsili said. An agreement on establishment of a Turkish-Italian university in Istanbul will be signed in the summit. Marsili said Italy's assistance to Turkey's EU accession process would be confirmed and the ways of boosting Turkish-Italian cooperation would be taken up in the summit. The Turkish-Italian summit will take place ahead of the G20 summit to be held in Washington, DC on November 15 and the prime ministers of Turkey and Italy will both be attending. Italy will take over the presidency of G8 as of January 1, 2009, and participation of Turkey and some G20 countries in the G8 activities will be discussed during the summit.¹⁴ (November 10, 2008, Anadolu Agency)

¹¹ BBC Monitoring European (November 23, 2008), “UK minister says 2009 British-led G-20 “not in competition” with Italian-led G-8.”

¹² Agence France Presse (November 16, 2008), “Berlusconi defends G8 in face of rising G20.”

¹³ Dow Jones Chinese Financial Wire (November 11, 2008), “DJ Italy Aims To Extend G8 To G13-G14 During '09 Presidency-PM.”

¹⁴ Anadolu Agency (November 10, 2008), “TURKEY'S PARTICIPATION IN G8 ACTIVITIES TO BE DISCUSSED IN TURKISHITALIAN SUMMIT.”

A key role must be played by China: “China must make its contribution to solving the crisis. This is the spirit with which today I invited President Hu Jintao to take part in next year’s G8 in Italy,” said Berlusconi, who added: “In January or February I shall return to Beijing in order to coordinate China’s participation in the summit.” EU Commission president Jose Manuel Barroso was on the same wavelength: “I really hope that China can offer an important contribution to resolving the crisis. It is a great opportunity to show a sense of responsibility.”¹⁵ (October 26, 2008, BBC Monitoring European)

Fourteen countries will meet regularly to try to give new direction to the world economy during Italy's presidency of the G8 next year, prime minister Silvio Berlusconi said. “As we have responsibility for the G8, and considering the economic crisis involving the whole world, I confirm the will of the G8 to create a G14 (that meets) in a continuous way,” Berlusconi said during an international meeting in China. The comments were posted on the Italian government's official website. Berlusconi said last week an enlarged grouping would include Egypt, India, China, South Africa, Mexico and Brazil. “In this way we will be representing 80 percent of the world economy and we will be able to take decisions, as there is the common intention to make this Super-G an institute of governance of the world economy,” Berlusconi said. The prime minister said all the other members of the G8 “are all very happy with this proposal of mine.”¹⁶ (October 24, 2008, AFX Asia)

The G8 should be expanded to a G14 to deal with the current global economic crisis, Italian prime minister Berlusconi said on October 24, 2008. Berlusconi recently arrived in Beijing for the 7th Asian-European Meeting (ASEM), which brings together the heads of the 10 Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) members and the 27 countries of the European Union, as well as the leaders of China, Japan, South Korea, India, Pakistan and Mongolia. “Acknowledging the responsibility Italy will have after assuming the next G8 presidency and facing the challenges of the global economic crisis which affects the interests of all countries, I confirm the G8 proposal to create the G14,” Berlusconi said. Germany, Italy and France have in the past urged expanding the G8 by including China, India, South Africa, Mexico, Egypt and Brazil. “As a result, the G14 would represent 80% of world's economy and we will be able to adopt decisions assuming that this ‘super group’ will serve as a management body for the global economy,” Berlusconi said.¹⁷ (October 24, 2008, RIA Novosti)

Berlusconi has called for an enlargement of the G8 to include emerging economic giants. Germany however is opposed to the idea. Discussions about enlarging the G8 to include emerging powerhouses in Asia and Latin America are hardly new. Yet they’ve taken on a new urgency due to the global financial crisis as western governments scramble to enlist the support of major emerging powers to contain the economic fallout. Earlier this week, Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi said it’s “very likely” that the G8 would invite some of the major emerging economies such as India, China, Egypt, South Africa,

¹⁵ BBC Monitoring European (October 25, 2008), “Enlarged G8 the only body able to control world economy - Italian premier.”

¹⁶ AFX Asia (October 24, 2008), “Italy promised ‘Super-G14’ to manage world economy.”

¹⁷ RIA Novosti (October 24, 2008), “Italy supports G8 expansion proposal.”

Mexico and Brazil to join. A “super G8” could become a forum which can deal better with the world’s current economic problems, Berlusconi said. Traditionally, G8 nations Canada, Britain and Italy have pressed the case to open the door to emerging economies. Fellow members France, Germany, Russia and in particular Japan and the United States have been hesitant. Support for enlargement is growing. Yet there has been a fluctuation regarding this issue recently. Katharina Gnath of the German Council on Foreign Relations said the shift wasn’t just on the financial crisis but also on issues like resources, and food prices that were discussed at this year’s G8 summit. “The G8 was not really capable of solving these issues. There is an increasing number of problems that are difficult to deal with in the present forum,” she added. Germany's position on whether or not to enlarge the G8 has shifted somewhat over the years, said Kristina Gnath. While previous Chancellor Gerhard Schroeder was in favor of widening the structure, Angela Merkel has been more hesitant since taking office in 2005. On October 22, 2008, Merkel’s spokesman confirmed the chancellor opposes an expansion of the G8 to embrace nations such as India and China. “[Merkel] doesn’t see an institutional expansion into a G9, a G12, a G15 and so on as the philosopher’s stone,” Thomas Steg said. But she was “open” to expanding the group at certain times on certain topics so that all the relevant nations or regional organizations were part of the discussion, he added. So even with countries like Italy pushing for expansion, it is something all countries will have to agree on — something that is not likely to happen.¹⁸ (October 23, 2008, Deutsche Welle)

Italy has said it will propose broadening the G7 nations and give new tasks to the IMF and World Bank, when it assumes the rotating presidency of the G8 in January, 2009.¹⁹ (October 13, 2008, Reuters News)

Italy has proposed to expand the G8 when it takes over the presidency in January 2009. The plan, which is still being finalized, would see the current G8 maintained as a political body and would help ensure the prevention of another global financial crisis like the current one. Italy’s proposal for political matters would broaden the G8 to include emerging countries such as China, India, Brazil and South Africa. These countries would form part of a broader group that would cover topics such as trade and foreign exchange, an official said.²⁰ (October 12, 2008, Dow Jones International News)

Italy will propose broadening the G7 nations and giving new and different tasks to the International Monetary Fund and World Bank, Italian economy minister Giulio Tremonti said. “We propose to go beyond the G7 framework to adopt a larger structure,” he said. He did not suggest which or how many new countries should enter the exclusive rich nations group, saying that for now he was calling it the Gx.²¹ (October 11, 2008, Reuters News)

¹⁸ Deutsche Welle (October 23, 2008), “Italy Leads Calls for Expanding Group of Eight Club.”

¹⁹ Reuters News (October 13, 2008), “UK’s Brown calls for new Bretton Woods meeting.”

²⁰ Dow Jones International News (October 12, 2008), “Italy Will Propose Enlarging G8; Stronger IMF—Source.”

²¹ Reuters News (October 11, 2008), “Italy proposed broadening G7, changing IMF.”

Italy will push for expansion to include countries such as China, India and Brazil when it assumes the G8 presidency in 2009, according to finance minister Giulio Tremonti. “We can no longer wait ... to transform the G8 into the G14, to let China enter, to let India enter, to let South Africa, Mexico and Brazil enter,” he said.²² (September 28, 2008, Reuters News)

Italy will seek closer engagement with China on global issues when Italy hosts the G8 next year, Italian foreign minister Franco Frattini said. “I intend to closely engage with China on key topics on the G8’s agenda such as climate change, sustainable energy policy, global terrorism and poverty.” Italy will attach particular importance to consulting China on stabilizing the border between Pakistan and Afghanistan.²³ (August 10, 2008, China Daily)

Italian prime minister Berlusconi has “confirmed support for Egypt’s aspirations to be associated with the G8 outreach process.” Italy has a say on the matter, since it is due to hold the presidency of the G8 in 2009, with a format which Berlusconi agreed upon at the recent summit at Hokkaido in Japan, and which makes provision for more space for emerging economies and for ‘outreach’ projects.²⁴ (July 23, 2008, BBC Monitoring European)

There is debate within the G8 about whether to go the next step and absorb the G5 fully into the G8, creating a G13. There has been talk that a decision may be made at next year’s summit in Italy.²⁵ (July 11, 2008, The Star)

The 2009 summit will include an expanded session which will see the participation of the Group of Five (G5) of China, India, South Africa, Mexico and Brazil. However, it is unlikely that the issue of expansion will come up as Italian prime minister Berlusconi opposed discussing the topic at the 2008 summit.²⁶ (July 9, 2008, ANSA-English Media Service)

Participation

Italian Prime Minister Berlusconi has said that Russia will participate in the 2009 G8 summit. “Doubts over Moscow taking part in the next G8 summit? There are no doubts whatsoever,” he said. Berlusconi also said that relations between Italy and the United States had not been damaged over his close relationship with former Russian President and now Prime Minister Putin. He said that relations with Washington were ‘warm and friendly’ and that there were ‘absolutely no problems.’²⁷ (September 10, 2008, ANSA English Media Service)

²² Reuters News (September 28, 2008), “Italy aims to expand G8 to include China, Brazil.”

²³ China Daily (August 10, 2008), “Italy Seeks Closer Ties with China.”

²⁴ BBC Monitoring European (July 23, 2008), “Italy’s Berlusconi holds talks with Mubarak, backs Egypt over G8 outreach.”

²⁵ The Star (July 11, 2008), “G13 would tackle all the major world issues.”

²⁶ ANSA-English Media Service (July 9, 2008), “G8: Berlusconi Rates Summit Colleagues.”

²⁷ ANSA-English Media Service (September 10, 2008), “Berlusconi Confirms Russia Will Be At G8 Summit.”

European diplomats say that Bush administration hawks are suspicious of Italian prime minister Berlusconi's personal ties to Putin and are worried about Italy's G8 presidency which will begin in January. Berlusconi is apparently planning to invite Putin to the G8 summit in Sardinia, while the U.S. was happy that the G7 (which excludes Russia) united to rebuke Russia's recognition of Abkhazia and South Ossetia. Italian officials deny that Berlusconi has turned his back on the Bush administration and insist that he still enjoys a close relationship with the president.²⁸ (September 10, 2008, Financial Times Europe)

Program

Day 1: G8 leaders meet alone.

Day 2: Discussion between G8 and Heiligendamm Partners (also known as the G5 countries).

Day 3: G8 plus G5 plus Africa. At the end of the day the G8 leaders will meet alone again.

Process: The Physical Summit

Site

Italian foreign minister Franco Frattini has confirmed that the Italian summit will take place at La Maddalena from July 8 to 10, 2009.²⁹ (October 8, 2009, ANSA News). Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi has hinted that next year's G8 summit may not take place on the small island of La Maddalena as planned. Berlusconi said it is "possible" that Italy may change the venue of next year's G8 summit to a different place if the country finds it difficult to set up necessary facilities there, according to Italian reporters, who attended his news conference in Japan. Berlusconi, however, did not specify an alternative candidate site for the 35th summit at the news conference. This is the first time the Italian leader has floated the idea of changing the site of next year's G8 summit from La Maddalena. They said there are rumors that the annual meeting may instead take place in the premier's luxurious villa 'La Certosa' in Sardinia, where Berlusconi hosted a meeting in April with Russian prime minister Vladimir Putin, who was president of the country at that time. In 2007, Italy officially announced that the next summit would be held on the tiny island off northern Sardinia, where the United States had a naval base until recently. The chair's summary of the Heiligendamm summit last year stated that the 34th summit would be held in Toyako, but this year's summary only said the next one would be held in Italy, without further specifying the location.³⁰ (July 9, 2008, Kyodo News)

²⁸ Financial Times Europe (September 10, 2008), "US and Italy ties strained."

²⁹ ANSA News (October 8, 2008). "G8: Frattini, Al Momento Non Napolo, Si Fara' A Maddalena."

³⁰ Kyodo News (July 9, 2008), "Berlusconi hints at hosting next year's G-8 summit at a different site."

Berlusconi confirmed that Italy intended to host the 2009 summit on the island of La Maddalena, off the northeast Sardinian coast, but said an alternative site existed if the reconversion of the ex-US Navy base there could not be completed in time.³¹ (July 9, 2008, ANSA-English Media Service)

Government Preparations: External

Bilateral Meetings

Italy is planning to cooperate particularly closely with Japan as the country is set to take over the G8 presidency from the Asian country in 2009, Italian prime minister Berlusconi said.³² (October 25, 2008, Jiji Press English News Service)

Italian prime minister Berlusconi is planning to meet with Angela Merkel on November 18 in Trieste.³³ (July 9, 2008, ANSA-English Media Service)

Other

Italy is in support of Russia's proposal to hold a European security conference, which Russia believes could avert the re-emergence of dividing lines on the continent, the Italian president said. Russian President Dmitry Medvedev has proposed bringing together European states, Russia, the United States and Canada to work out a new regional security code to replace Cold War-era deals. "I listened with great interest to Dmitry Medvedev's proposals concerning the new idea of ensuring security in the Euro-Atlantic space," President Giorgio Napolitano said. "Italy will support giving special attention to discussing this theme within the European Union," he added.³⁴ (July 16, 2008, Reuters News)

Emergency Meeting

Italy, which takes up the G8 presidency in January, will host a 14-state summit in March to discuss the "human dimension" of the world financial crisis, according to labour minister Maurizio Sacconi. The meeting will bring together G8 leaders and six emerging nations to discuss "the human dimension of the crisis, unemployment and measures that the international community can adopt in a more coordinated way," Sacconi said. "I am sure that on a topic that has so much consensus, such a meeting will be a success," he said. Several countries, notably France and Germany, have supported the idea that the G8, should regularly consult with the world's largest emerging economies, (China, India, South Africa, Mexico and Brazil). Italian prime minister Silvio Berlusconi said in late

³¹ ANSA-English Media Service (July 9, 2008), "G8: Berlusconi Rates Summit Colleagues."

³² Jiji Press English News Service (October 25, 2008), "Japan, France Agree on New Financial Regulations."

³³ ANSA-English Media Service (July 9, 2008), "G8: Berlusconi Rates Summit Colleagues."

³⁴ Reuters News (July 16, 2008), "Italy back Russian call for security conference."

October that the G8 countries had “taken a decision” to enlarge the group with these five countries plus Egypt.³⁵ (December 3, 2008, Dow Jones Newswires)

Ministerial Meetings

G8 Agricultural Ministers

Japan has given up a plan to host a meeting of agricultural ministers from the G8 by the end of the year to discuss steps to assuage rises in global food prices, a senior farm ministry official said. Given the ongoing financial crisis in the world, “the farm ministers have no time to gather at one place,” Michio Ide, Japanese vice minister of agriculture, forestry and fisheries, said. The need for such a meeting has also weakened due to a recent downturn in international grain prices, analysts said. Leaders of the G8 agreed during their summit meeting in Hokkaido in July to arrange a meeting of their farm ministers before next year’s summit.³⁶ (November 10, 2008, Kyodo News)

G8 Foreign Ministers

G7 Finance Ministers

In a statement released October 27, the G7 finance ministers and central bank governors stated, “We reaffirm our shared interest in a strong and stable international financial system. We are concerned about the recent excessive volatility in the exchange rate of the yen and its possible adverse implications for economic and financial stability. We continue to monitor markets closely, and cooperate as appropriate.”³⁷ (October 27, 2008, Financial Post)

10 October

The world’s seven leading economies agreed to take “all necessary steps” to tackle a financial crisis that threatens to plunge the world into recession, and promised to provide banks the money they need to stay afloat, according to a joint statement by the G7 finance ministers and central bankers on October 10. They called for “urgent and exceptional action” to stabilize the financial system and unblock credit markets that have come to a virtual halt in the United States and Europe. The seven countries promised to “ensure that our banks ... can raise capital from public as well as private sources in sufficient amounts to re-establish confidence and permit them to continue lending to households and businesses.” They also promised “robust” guarantees for the savings

³⁵ Dow Jones Newswires (December 3, 2008), “Italy Calls Crisis Summit of G-8 Plus 8 Emerging Economies.”

³⁶ Kyodo News (November 10, 2008), “Japan drops plan to host G-8 farm ministers’ meeting by year-end.”

³⁷ Financial Post (October 27, 2008), “G7 Statement on Sunday.”

deposits of consumers. There were no specific joint moves announced in the statement.³⁸ (October 11, 2008, Trend News Agency)

Before the G7 finance ministers and central bankers met, Italy said it would not sign the G7 statement as it stands because it does not contain strong enough commitments to address the global financial crisis, economy minister Giulio Tremonti said. “We see a text that is written in the old style, as if nothing has happened. We are not going to sign that text,” Tremonti said. “Or there is a new text with stronger commitments (otherwise Italy won’t sign). We will try to convince them.”³⁹ (October 10, 2008, Reuters News)

Russia was unlikely to be invited to the G7 finance ministers meeting being held on October 10, U.S. officials said. “The president will have the opportunity to hear directly from the finance ministers about how the financial crisis is affecting their respective economies and the steps they are taking to deal with these challenges, both individually and collectively,” said a White House spokesperson. The talks will come after the G7 finance ministers and central bank governors meet in Washington. President Bush also spoke to German chancellor Merkel, Brazil’s president Lula, British prime minister Brown, French president Sarkozy and Italian prime minister Berlusconi earlier in the week.⁴⁰ (October 10, 2008, SBS World News Headline Stories)

On October 10 Australian treasurer Wayne Swan said, “To date, the global solution has been in the hands of the G7 and the G7 does not necessarily include any of the developing countries around the world that are very important to the future of the world economy.” “The key challenge is to restore confidence, to restore confidence on a global basis and, of course, that requires global solutions.”⁴¹ (October 10, 2008, Asia Pulse)

The G7 finance ministers and central bank governors will meet in Washington on October 10. The ministers will go the White House the next morning to talk with U.S. President Bush and heads of the IMF and the World Bank. British prime minister Brown said he hoped these meetings would culminate in a “leaders meeting in which we must lay down the principles and the new policies for restructuring our banking and financial system all around the globe.” He called on governments to adopt new international rules for transparency and codes of conduct to guard against “irresponsible risk-taking,” as well as a new system of cross-border supervisors to cope with international cash flows.⁴² (October 9, 2008, Agence France Presse)

U.S. treasury secretary Paulson said that the G7 meeting taking place on October 10 would be a forum “to discuss the steps that each of us are taking to confront this crisis and ways to further enhance our collective efforts.”⁴³ (October 9, 2008, Agence France Presse)

³⁸ Trend News Agency (October 11, 2008), “G7 seek ‘urgent and exceptional’ action on financial crisis.”

³⁹ Reuters News (October 10, 2008), “Italy won’t sign G7 draft statement as stands.”

⁴⁰ SBS World News Headline Stories (October 10, 2008), “Bush, G7 to hold crisis talks.”

⁴¹ Asia Pulse (October 10, 2008), “Australian Tres Hopes G20 Can Achieve Something Where G7 Failed.”

⁴² Agence France Presse (October 9, 2008), “Brown urges world to follow Britain ahead of finance meeting.”

⁴³ Agence France Presse (October 9, 2008), “Dollar gains against euro ahead of G7 meeting.”

“There is a need for urgent action. The policy response needs to be decisive. It needs to be global. The stakes could not be higher,” a prominent group of economists said about the upcoming G7 finance ministers taking place in Washington on October 10. They also agreed that the G7 plan should include the recapitalization of banks, with many also arguing for government guarantees, and some calling for additional economic stimulus. “With these two priority measures—a blanket guarantee bank liabilities and quick recapitalization, both coordinated internationally—there is a hope that governments can finally get a handle on the problem,” the economists said. “It is of the utmost urgency that they do so this weekend.”⁴⁴ (October 9, 2008, Dow Jones Chinese Financial Wire)

Japan is expected to propose to other G7 nations at their meeting on October 10 that public funds be injected into troubled financial institutions to ensure financial sector stability. Japanese finance minister Shoichi Nakagawa is expected to make the proposal at the Washington. Japanese Prime Minister Taro Aso instructed Nakagawa to tell the G7 meeting about Japan’s experiences in providing taxpayer money to troubled financial firms.⁴⁵ (October 8, 2008, Dow Jones Chinese Financial Wire)

Ahead of a meeting of the G7 nations in Washington this week, Paulson called for a special gathering of the G20: “I am calling for a special meeting of the G20 that will include senior finance officials, central bankers, and regulators from key emerging economies to discuss how we might coordinate to lessen the effects of global market turmoil and the economic slowdown on all of our countries.” Paulson said that he and President George W. Bush had been in “regular contact” with their international counterparts in the past 12 months, “and we have collaborated in a variety of ways.” He said he would be meeting with the finance chiefs of the Group of Seven major economies this weekend “to discuss the steps that each of us are taking to confront this crisis and ways to further enhance our collective efforts.” Officials from the G20 group of industrialized and developing nations met in Rio de Janeiro in late August to prepare for the annual meeting of G20 economy ministers and central bank chiefs scheduled in Sao Paulo in November, with representatives from the IMF and the World Bank. Paulson gave no suggestions for when a meeting of the G20 should take place.⁴⁶ (October 8, 2008, Agence France Presse)

Russia has been invited to attend a dinner with the G7 finance ministers on October 10, 2008. “The outreach dinner will be the G7 countries, and Russia will be a participant as well,” said Treasury Under Secretary David McCormick. “It is an opportunity for the ministers and central bankers to meet, talk about some of the situations in their own countries, potentially learn from the experiences of others.” McCormick also confirmed

⁴⁴ Dow Jones Chinese Financial Wire (October 9, 2008), “DJ Leading Economist Urge Concrete G7 Action on Financial Crisis.”

⁴⁵ Dow Jones Chinese Financial Wire (October 8, 2008), “DJ Japan To Propose At G7 Public Funds For Financial Cos.”

⁴⁶ Agence France Presse (October 8, 2008), “US calls for financial crisis finance talks with emerging nations.”

that the U.S. has been in regular contact with their Chinese counterparts.⁴⁷ (October 8, 2008, Reuters News)

There is a G7 finance ministers meeting scheduled for October 10, 2008.⁴⁸ (October 6, 2008, Agence France Presse)

Civil Society

Activities

The Model G8 Youth Summit will take place from March 15-19, 2009, in Milan, Italy. It simulates the work of the real G8 summit. The Italian youth ministry has agreed to sponsor the 2009 event. This 2009 youth summit will be the fourth of its kind. The first was held in Russia in 2006. The second and third took place in Germany and Japan, respectively. According to their website, “The Mission and Vision of the Summit is to be recognized as a panel representing the Voice of the Youth to the Leaders of the G8.” The G8 Youth Summit is organized by young volunteers from the host country with the help of national student teams in the other G8 countries. It receives support from public and private organisations, universities and government agencies, yet the complete format and content is decided upon by the young people themselves. The national teams are responsible for recruiting their national delegation to the summit, raising funds and establishing contacts to public and private sponsors. The host team is responsible for organizing the summit, accommodation, communication and preparation of the summit.⁴⁹ (November 12, 2008, G8 Youth Summit)

Italy's G8 Team

Silvio Berlusconi, Prime Minister
Giampiero Massolo, Sherpa
Franco Frattini, Minister of Foreign Affairs
Giulio Tremonti, Minister of Economy and Finance
Stefania Prestigiacomo, Minister of Environment
Ignazio La Russa, Minister of Defence
Angelino Alfano, Minister of Justice
Luca Zaia, Minister of Agriculture
Mariastella Gelmini, Minister of Education, University and Research
Maurizio Sacconi, Minister of Labour, Health and Social Affairs

⁴⁷ Reuters News (October 8, 2008), “G7 to hold outreach dinner with Russia Friday.”

⁴⁸ Agence France Presse (October 6, 2008), “G7 finance chiefs to meet Friday in Washington: Treasury.”

⁴⁹ G8 Youth Summit, “G8 Youth Summit 2009,” Accessed 12 November 2008, Available from: <<http://www.g8youthsummit.org/page.aspx?Id=4>>.

Participating Leaders

G8 Leaders

Italy

Silvio Berlusconi was born in Milan, Italy, on September 29, 1936. In 1961, he received his degree in law from the University of Milan. Before entering into politics he worked in business and was quite the entrepreneur—building construction businesses, establishing cable networks, and forming media groups. Berlusconi was first elected prime minister in 1994. He served a second term as prime minister from 2001 to 2006. On April 29, 2008, Berlusconi became prime minister for a third time. This will be Berlusconi's eighth G8 summit and his third as host (Naples 1994, Genoa 2001). Giampiero Massolo is his G8 sherpa.

Canada

Stephen Harper was born in Toronto, Ontario, Canada, on April 30, 1959. After attending the University of Toronto, in 1985, he received his bachelor's degree in Economics from the University of Calgary. In 1991, he returned to the University of Calgary and received his master's degree in economics. Harper was first elected to the House of Commons in 1993. On February 6, 2006, Harper became prime minister after his Conservative party won the January 2006 election. This will be Prime Minister Harper's fourth G8 summit. Leonard Edwards is his G8 sherpa. Canada is scheduled to host the 2010 G8 summit.

France

Nicolas Sarkozy was born in Paris, France, on January 28, 1955. In 1978, he received his degree in law from the University of Paris. Sarkozy worked as a lawyer while he pursued politics. From 1983 to 2002, he was mayor of Neuilly-sur-Seine. He has been president of the Union pour un Mouvement Populaire (UMP), France's major right-wing party, since 2004. Sarkozy became president on May 16, 2007. This will be his third G8 summit. Jean-David Levitte is his G8 sherpa. France is due to host the G8 in 2011.

United States

Barack Obama became president-elect of the United States on November 4, 2008. Obama was elected to the U.S. Senate in 2005. he worked as a community organizer, a civil rights lawyer and a state legislator for Illinois. The first black president, he was born on August 4, 1961, in Honolulu, Hawaii, to a Kenyan father and American mother. He received his bachelor's degree from Columbia University in 1983 and a law degree from Harvard University in 1991. He is married to Michelle Obama. George W. Bush remains president until the inauguration of the new president on January 20, 2009, and his sherpa is Daniel Price. The United States is due to host the 2012 G8 summit.

United Kingdom

Gordon Brown was born in Govan, Glasgow, Scotland, on February 20, 1951. He studied history at the University of Edinburgh and completed his PhD in 1982. Before entering politics he worked as a lecturer and journalist. Brown was first elected to parliament in 1983. He served as chancellor of the exchequer (finance minister) under Tony Blair from 1997 to 2007. He assumed the office of prime minister on June 27, 2007. This will be his second G8 summit as leader of the United Kingdom. He accompanied Blair to summits in his ministry of finance position. Jonathan Cunliffe is his sherpa. The United Kingdom is due to host the G8 summit in 2013.

Russia

Dmitry Medvedev was born in Leningrad (now St. Petersburg) of the former Soviet Union on September 14, 1965. He earned a degree in law in 1987 and a PhD in private law in 1990 from Leningrad State University. Before entering politics, he worked as a lawyer. This will be his second G8 summit. Arkady Dvorkovich is his sherpa. Russia is due to host the G8 summit in 2014.

Germany

Angela Merkel was born in Hamburg, Germany, on July 17, 1956. In 1978, she received her doctorate in physics from the University of Leipzig. Before entering politics she worked as a physicist. Merkel was first elected to the Bundestag in 1990. She became chancellor on November 22, 2005. This will be her fourth G8 summit. Bernd Pfaffenbach is her sherpa. Germany is due to host the 2015 G8 summit.

Japan

Taro Aso was born in Iizuka in Fukuoka prefecture on September 20, 1940. He studied politics and economics at Gakushuin University and went on to Stanford University and the London School of Economics. Before entering politics he worked in mining. He was also a member of the Japanese shooting team that competed at the 1976 Olympics. Aso was first elected to the House of Representatives in 1979 and has been re-elected eight times. He served in a variety of positions in government including minister of foreign affairs and minister of international affairs and communications. He was elected prime minister of Japan on September 24, 2008. This will be his second G8 summit. Japan is due to host the 2016 summit.

O5 Leaders

China

Hu Jintao was born in Jiangyan, Jiangsu, China, on December 21, 1942. In 1965 he received his engineering degree from Tsinghua University. Before entering into politics Hu worked as an engineer. He assumed the office of the presidency on March 15, 2003. This will be his sixth G8 summit.

India

Manmohan Singh was born in Gah, Punjab (now known as Chakwal district, Pakistan), on September 26, 1932. He received his master's degree from Punjab University in 1954, an additional undergraduate degree from Cambridge University in 1957 and a DPhil from Oxford University in 1962. Before entering into politics, Singh worked as an economist, including for the International Monetary Fund. He served as finance minister of India from 1991 to 1996. He became prime minister on May 22, 2004. This will be his fifth G8 summit.

Brazil

Luiz Inácio Lula da Silva was born in Caetés, Pernambuco, Brazil, on October 27, 1945. He received no formal education and began working in a copper pressing factory at the age of 14. He became heavily involved in the Workers Unions at a young age. Lula was first elected to Congress in 1986. He assumed the office of the president on January 1, 2003. This will be his sixth G8 summit.

Mexico

Felipe de Jesús Calderón Hinojosa was born in Morelia, Michoacán, Mexico, on August 18, 1962. He received his bachelor's degree in law from Escuela Libre de Derecho in Mexico City. Later, he received a master's degree in economics from the Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México as well as a master's in public administration from Harvard University. He served as secretary of energy from 2003 to 2004. He became President of Mexico on December 1, 2006. This will be Calderón's third G8 summit.

South Africa

Petrus Kgalema Motlanthe was born on July 19, 1949. In the 1970s he worked for the Johannesburg city council and later served as secretary general of the National Union of Mineworkers. He became secretary general of the African National Congress in 1997 and president of South Africa on September 25, 2008. This will be his first G8 summit.

Other Participating Leaders

Australia

Kevin Rudd was born in Nambour, Queensland, Australia on September 21, 1957. He received his degree in Asian studies from Australian National University. Before entering into politics, he worked for the Department of Foreign Affairs where he held posts in Stockholm, Sweden and China. Rudd was first elected to Parliament in 1998. He became Prime Minister of Australia on December 3, 2007. This will be his second G8 summit.

Indonesia

Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono was born on September 9, 1949, in Pacitan, East Java, Indonesia. He received his PhD in agricultural economics from the Bogor Institute of Agriculture in 2004. Before entering into politics, he served as a military general. He was elected on October 5, 2004. This will be his second G8 summit.

South Korea

Lee Myung-bak was born in Kirano, Osaka, Japan on December 19, 1941. He received a degree in business administration from Korea University in 1965. He worked in the business sector before entering into politics. He became president on February 25, 2008. This will be his second G8 summit.

Appendices

Commitments and Remits Due in 2009

2004 (G8 Plan of Support for Reform)-12. Working to train, including through appropriate multilateral institutions, 100,000 teachers by 2009, with a particular focus on high-quality literacy skills;

2004 (Breaking the Cycle of Famine in the Horn of Africa)-2. We will work with the New Coalition for Food Security to offer unified support for the Government's reform program to realize the Government's goal of attaining food security for five million chronically food insecure people by 2009.

2004 (Ending the Cycle of Famine in the Horn of Africa, Raising Agricultural Productivity, and Promoting Rural Development in Food Insecure Countries: A G8 Action Plan)-12. We will work with the Government and other donors to realize the Government's goal of attaining food security for five million chronically food insecure people by 2009.

2007-23. [Fully respecting the mandate, function and role of the competent multilateral organizations, in particular the WTO and the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO), participants in the dialogue may also discuss initiatives aimed at strengthening intellectual property rights protection which should then be addressed in the appropriate international forums.] The G8 Summit 2009 will take stock of the progress made by that date.

2007-141. The G8 Summit in Japan in 2008 will receive an interim report on the progress made and at the G8 Summit in Italy in 2009 a final report on the outcomes of the Dialogue Process will be presented. [Heiligendamm Process]

2008-21: We therefore compiled national reports, with the assistance of the International Energy Agency (IEA), evaluating our efforts to adhere to those principles and welcome the corresponding overview provided by the IEA. We are committed to updating our reports for 2009 Summit.

2008-49: We reiterate our commitment to the Process and look forward to receiving a comprehensive concluding report at the G8 Summit in 2009. [Heiligendamm Process]

2008-50: We reaffirm our commitment to take strong leadership in combating climate change and in this respect, welcome decisions taken in Bali as the foundation for reaching a global agreement in the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) process by 2009. We are committed to its successful conclusion.

2008-57: At the same time, in order to ensure an effective and ambitious global post-2012 climate regime, all major economies will need to commit to meaningful mitigation actions to be bound in the international agreement to be negotiated by the end of 2009.

2008-129: In this regard, acknowledging the need to accelerate the achievement of the internationally agreed goals on water and sanitation, we will reinvigorate our efforts to implement the Evian Water Action Plan and will review it on the basis of a progress report prepared by our water experts by the next Summit.

2008-144: G8 progress to support FTI, including meeting shortfalls, will be monitored through a report to be delivered at the 2009 Summit.

2008-190: Additionally, we agree that transfers of enrichment equipment, facilities and technology to any additional state in the next year will be subject to conditions that, at a minimum, do not permit or enable replication of the facilities; and where technically feasible reprocessing transfers to any additional state will be subject to those same conditions.

2008-206: We task our experts to discuss G8 efforts including the implementation of the initiatives above, in cooperation with the UN and regional organizations, and to submit a progress report prior to the Summit in 2009.

2008-235: We will review the progress on this issue at our next Summit. [food crisis]

2008-246: We stress the urgent need for full implementation of existing standards, including Financial Action Task Force (FATF) Special Recommendations VIII and IX, and ask our experts to take steps to share information, evaluate threats, assess new trends and promote implementation and review these efforts next year.

2008-280: Our nations will continue to work constructively together to promote the success of the Copenhagen climate change conference in 2009.

Emissions Table

(million tonnes CO₂ equivalent)

Country	2006	2005	2000	1990	% Change 2006/2005	% Change 2006/1990
United States	7,017.3	7,106.6	7,002.6	6,135.2	-1.3	+14.4
Russia	2,190.4	2,123.5	2,038.4	3,326.4	+3.1	-34.2
Japan	1,340.1	1,658.1	1,348.3	1,272.1	-1.3	+5.3
Germany	1,004.8	1,005.0	1,019.5	1,227.7	-0.02	-18.2
Canada	721.0	734.0	718.0	592.0	-1.9	+22.0
Britain	655.8	658.7	673.8	772.0	-0.4	-15.0
France	541.3	555.1	555.6	563.3	-2.5	+3.9
Italy	567.9	577.9	552.3	516.9	-1.7	+9.9
Total	14,038.6	14,118.9	13,908.5	14,408.7	-0.6	-2.6

⁵⁰(May 23, 2008, Reuters News)

Sources: national submission to UN Climate Change Secretariat, except for Canada, for which the data come from Environment Canada

G8 GDP

Country	PPP in US$ (2007 est.)
United States	13,840,000,000,000
Japan	4,290,000,000,000
Germany	2,810,000,000,000
United Kingdom	2,137,000,000,000
France	2,047,000,000,000
Italy	1,786,000,000,000
Canada	1,266,000,000,000
Russia	2,088,000,000,000
European Union	14,380,000,000,000
World	65,610,000,000,000
G8 % of World	46.1271148%
G8 + EU % of World	54.662399%

⁵⁰ Reuters News (May 23, 2008), "TABLE-Greenhouse gas emission in G8 members.

Source: CIA World Factbook

Note: G8 + EU does not double count Germany, the United Kingdom, France and Italy..